ABOUT LACMA

Founded in 1910 as part of the Museum of Science, History, and Art, LACMA established itself as an independent institution in 1961, and opened its new facilities on its current campus in 1965. Under the visionary leadership of Michael Govan, LACMA mounts more than 30 exhibitions and installations a year, welcomes over 1.2 million visitors annually, and has increased its exhibition space by 100,000 square feet. The permanent collection has grown to 130,000+ objects that rank among the best in the world.
