

Renzo Piano Building Workshop

ARCHITECT'S STATEMENT

Once upon a time there was a garage

In a city like Los Angeles to be able to demolish a garage and replace it with art is already a miracle: the first miracle. The second is that Lynda and Stewart Resnick made it happen; and I am extremely grateful to them.

Now the entire campus of LACMA downtown Los Angeles takes a new shape and structures itself around the "Spine". The next step will be the conquest of the Far West: bringing the spine inside LACMA West and, of course, after that, the conquest of the Far East.

Renzo Piano
September 2010