

THE GUIDE

LACMA

EDUCATION AND PUBLIC PROGRAMS
WINTER 2023

WELCOME

With a new year comes many new beginnings. Here at LACMA, we are welcoming 2023 with the opening of several new exhibitions, and this season's programming offers a robust slate of opportunities to engage with them.

You can start the year fresh by re-energizing your body and mind in the exhibition Another World: The Transcendental Painting Group, 1938–1945 with an Art & Meditation class, a discussion with artists, or even a sound bath. Perhaps you'd like to take up a new craft in 2023 by joining our new Fiber Maker's Circle, which invites makers of all ages and skill levels to be inspired by textile art in the exhibition New Abstracts: Recent Acquisitions, or maybe you'd favor a walkthrough with the curator and several exhibiting artists. View The Space Between: The Modern in Korean Art through the lens of a 20th-century photographer, a postwar filmmaker, or a modern scholar at one of our walkthroughs or film screenings.

Celebrate the exhibition Coded: Art Enters the Computer Age, 1952–1982 with a fascinating variety of music, dance, and interactive digital installations.

You can learn more about the history of the African Diaspora in the traveling exhibition Afro-Atlantic Histories. Join us for the film series Wayward Waters: Black Cinema & The Atlantic co-presented with the Pan African Film Festival or an intimate conversation between LACMA CEO and Wallis Annenberg Director Michael Govan and American conceptual artist Glenn Ligon. Educators can also ring in the new year with K–12 teacher professional development in our virtual Evenings for Educators series based on the exhibition.

Our roster of family programming is plentiful this season. I'd particularly like to highlight the return of our teen internship program, where under-served teens ages 16–18 can gather hands-on work experience in museum education and community work involving art and tech practices. We invite people of all ages to join our family-friendly printmaking workshops inspired by the exhibition Pressing Politics: Revolutionary Graphics from Mexico and Germany at Charles White Elementary School. Seek inspiration from the exhibition Scandinavian Design and the United States, 1890–1980 or Conversing in Clay: Ceramics from the LACMA Collection with one of our many art classes for kids or adults. Folks in South L.A. can get creative at one of our community programs at AC Bilbrew Library, Earvin "Magic" Johnson Park, or the SoLa Impact Tech Center.

This season promises to bring exciting opportunities to engage with you all on-campus again. As always, we look forward to seeing you all, whether in person or virtually. Here's to an exciting winter season!

Warmly,
Naima J. Keith

Presented in conjunction with Afro-Atlantic Histories, this series engages the multiple historical and cultural trajectories of the Black diaspora through the aesthetic expressions of filmmakers and visual artists. Curated by critic and scholar Yasmina Price, Wayward Waters: Black Cinema & The Atlantic traces the emancipatory and ecstatic possibilities of cinematic challenges to transatlantic slave trade, colonization, and Euro-American imperialism. What emerges from these fluid currents of poetic and political Black visual culture is a defiant stance against borders and containment, offering a clearer encounter with the past and a more expansive vision for the future. Featuring artists and filmmakers from Brazil, Guadeloupe, Haiti, Mauritania, France, and North America, the program comprises three feature films preceded by shorts and one block of experimental short films.

Co-presented with the Pan African Film Festival in association with LACMA's Aspect Ratio film education program. Members $8; General Public $12; Seniors 62+ / Students $10. Visit lacma.org/event-calendar-weekly for showtimes.

FAMILY ACTIVITY:
SCANDINAVIAN

HI! I'M A TROLL!
YOU CAN CALL ME LUCKY,
AND I'M A GOOD LUCK TROLL!

Yes, there are good trolls! What? You think all trolls are old and ugly? Only bad trolls are ugly. As you can see by my good looks, I'm not only a good troll, but a Good Luck Troll.

I spent most of my life right here in Los Angeles. I belonged to Betty Miller, a pilot who also had a flight school in Santa Monica. Betty was the first woman pilot to fly solo across the Pacific Ocean. Well, I was there too. She took me along for good luck. I told you, I'm a Good Luck Troll.

We flew to Australia, Honolulu, and Fiji, among other amazing places. Now I'm hanging out at LACMA. You can see me in the exhibition Scandinavian Design and the United States, 1890–1980. I'm in the case right next to the box of Legos.

After our historic flight, Betty and I went to the White House to meet President John F. Kennedy. You can see a photo of us right on the case where I'm standing.

This exhibition shows the work of designers from Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Finland, and Iceland. When these designers came to the United States, they wanted to bring a little bit of their original home to their new home.

Walk through the exhibition and you will see furniture, textiles, and toys that are both Scandinavian and American at the same time. I like the toys best, because I'm a troll! A Good Luck Troll! Have I told you?

I'm made of rubber, but my ancestors were hand-carved from wood by our Papa, Thomas Dam, in Denmark. Later, the rest of us were made in factories and were adopted by people around the world. I'm probably the luckiest of all the Good Luck Trolls, because Betty Miller adopted me and took me everywhere. Have I told you about that trip we took? And that we met the President?

Well, I forget, since I'm stuck in this case. Also, I've been wearing this outfit for years. Maybe you can help me.

Please design a new outfit for me on the next page. You can cut me out like a paper troll doll, or draw clothes right on me. You can also draw outfits on separate pieces of paper to cut out and dress me with. Make the clothes you want to see me in. I'll wear anything! While you're at it, you can change my hair, add jewelry, or give me a pet.

The sky's the limit! (Get it, because I flew over the Pacific Ocean? Have I told you?) So get drawing! If you want to share a photo of your work, make sure to tag @lacma on social media so I can see it!

GOOD LUCK!
(HAVE I TOLD YOU I'M A GOOD LUCK TROLL?)
