The Los Angeles County Museum of Art (LACMA) presents Do Ho Suh: 348 West 22nd Street, Apartment A, Unit-2, Staircase (2011–15) replicates the artist's ground-floor residence from a New York City building. Created in luminous swaths of translucent polyester, the rooms and hallways are supported by stainless-steel. In this immersive passageway of conjoined rooms, visitors pass through an ephemeral representation of the artist's personal history. The corridor, stairs, apartment, and studio are each rendered in a single block of color, with fixtures and appliances replicated in exacting detail. Fusing traditional Korean sewing techniques with digital modeling tools, the maze-like installation of 348 West 22nd Street balances intricate construction with delicate monumentality. The installation is curated by Meghan Doherty, Curatorial Assistant, Contemporary Art at LACMA.

Inspired by his own history of migration, Suh's ethereal, malleable architecture presents an intimate world both deeply familiar and profoundly estranged. The artist's works elicit a physical manifestation of memory, exploring ideas of personal history, cultural tradition, and belief systems in the contemporary world. Best known for his full-size fabric reconstructions of places he has lived including former residences in Seoul, Providence, New York, Berlin, and London, Suh's creations of physicalized memory address issues of home, displacement, individuality, and collectivity, articulated through the architecture of domestic space.

348 West 22nd Street, Apartment A, Unit-2, Staircase is the second work by Do Ho Suh to enter LACMA's collection, following the artist's Gate (2005) which was acquired by the museum in 2006. Made of translucent silk, the work is a full-size rendering of one of the gates to the artist's childhood home in Seoul.
